CITY INNOVATIONS

Police often rely on Amazon Ring for surveillance

(Stephen Brashear/Getty Images)

Police departments nationwide are giving homeowners Amazon's Ring smart doorbells for free or at a discount as a way to create private surveillance networks. In return, Ring owners are required in certain situations to turn over surveillance footage when requested by police.

TECH LEADERSHIP

4 ways sensors are helping Toronto be more efficient

Toronto is using sensors to track gasoline usage by city fleet vehicles, to monitor pipes for water leaks and to improve traffic flow, said city manager Chris Murray during a panel presentation. Sensors will also be used by a service the city is developing to tell residents the whereabouts of snowplows.

92% of passengers felt safe in AV taxi

Aptiv and Lyft have been testing an autonomous taxi service in Las Vegas over the last year, and so far the vehicle has completed 50,000 rides. According to feedback from passengers, 92% reported feeling safe or very safe during the trip, but the vehicle still has a human safety driver behind the wheel.

EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES

New drone-driven system can assist with spraying of shotcrete

Architects in Spain are behind the development of a drone-driven method that involves spraying shotcrete through a long hose for use on various construction sites. "The hope is that such projects and techniques bring back sustainability linked with earth architecture in dense city centers," says Stephanie Chaltiel of MuDD Architects.

Responses to 9-1-1 calls from scene of fatal delay still inadequate

Somerville, Mass., Police Department Deputy Chief Stephen Carrabino accompanied Peter DeMarco as DeMarco attempted to determine if the response rate to 9-1-1 calls made from outside CHA Somerville Hospital, where his wife died of an asthma attack in 2016 after waiting for help, had improved. DeMarco made eight test calls and sent three text messages, asking the dispatchers to confirm his location, and received responses that varied in accuracy. The National Emergency Number Association has said that GPS information from smartphones is likely to be incorporated into the information dispatchers receive within a year, which should improve dispatchers' ability to locate callers.

The FEMA Crowdsourcing Unit has been in discussions with NextDoor. We notice people using NextDoor during emergencies and they often include state and local notifications on emergencies in those neighborhoods. I've included Emily and our FEMA Crowdsourcing email in case she might have other thoughts on how we might collaborate with NextDoor in the future.

Thanks, Sophia

Hello, Chief

I so thank you for coming out I have heard nothing but good things concerning the conversation and an energy from people to continue to have more in the future. You did an awesome job and gave us great information. I appreciate the way you spoke with honesty and openness to make improvements in areas where there could be some. Most of all the way you listened and responded to the community was very authentic and refreshing. I also appreciate the other two officers who attended and spoke.

Very interesting article and makes a lot of sense this is something we may can add into one of our next conversations. Thanks for the article. I look forward to our continued relationship, will be in touch soon.

Have a great weekend

Fontes: 911 SAVES Act deserves continued Congressional support

Negotiators in the House and Senate should continue backing the 911 SAVES Act, which was included when the House passed the National Defense Authorization Act recently, says National Emergency Number Association CEO Brian Fontes. The nonpartisan, cost-free measure "would give an estimated 100,000 public safety telecommunicators located in every community across America the respect and support they deserve," he says.

"New norm" of mass shootings requires safety efforts

Law enforcement and security experts are discussing how best to prevent and respond to events such as this past weekend's mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio, that left 31 people dead. "It's the new norm, and we've been pushing active shooter training to everyone because everybody needs to know how to be safe," says Albany County, N.Y., Sheriff Craig Apple.

Amazon's Ring seeks permission from police to access dispatch feeds

Amazon-owned Ring is asking police departments to allow it to access the computer-aided dispatch feeds used by 9-1-1 professionals so it can alert users of its Neighbors app about local crime, according to Gizmodo. Ring says it would only use CAD data to give alerts about particular crimes and that it does not publish location information.

Subject: FOIA request for documents related to Amazon Ring

Dear FOIA Officer:

Pursuant to the Illinois Freedom of Information Act, 5 ILCS 140, I request copies of the following records:

- All documents (including but not limited to emails, memoranda, contracts, or agreements) related to the City's contract with Amazon Ring
- All emails (including any and all attachments) sent to/received from email addresses associated with the ring.com domain from March 1, 2019 to present
- Any documents (including, but not limited to, emails, memos, guidances, or guidelines) containing any policies or procedures (including, but not limited to, procedures for obtaining video and policies regarding posting on the Neighbors app) regarding either the Neighbors app or RING cameras
- Documents (including, but not limited to, emails or memos) sufficient to show the Partnership Point of Contact, Press/Media Coordinator, Social Media Coordinator, Investigative Coordinator, and Community Relations Coordinator with regards to the RING agreement

The Bloomington Police recently announced a new partnership with Ring:

<https://www.wglr.org/post/bpd-promotes-neighbors-app-crime-alerts-data>.

The requested documents will be made available to the general public, and not for commercial purposes, in order to shed some light on these contracts with the City (see, e.g., my blog post at <https://sgandlur.com/ring-map>, for more context on investigations into Amazon Ring).

In the event that there are fees, I would be grateful if you would inform me of the total charges in advance of fulfilling my request. I would prefer the request filled electronically, by e-mail attachment if available or CD-ROM if not.

Thank you in advance for your anticipated cooperation in this matter. I look forward to receiving your response to this request within 5 business days, as the statute requires.

Sincerely,
Shreyas Gandlur
